Executive Leadership Training Launched

The PBJC Training and Career Development department has launched its newest training initiative known as LEDGE (LEadership Development for Government Executives). Over three days in August, twenty-two leaders from thirteen jurisdictions tackled such topics as cross-jurisdictional relationships, personality development, personal leadership styles and leadership issues in government.

“LEDGE gave me a better insight into my own management style and how it relates to others. I will encourage our senior and mid-level leaders to attend this training in the future,” said Sam Gaston, City Manager of Mountain Brook.

LEDGE will be offered again in Spring 2009. For more information email Pete Blank at blankp@bjcal.org.
